

Connecting with loved ones

Keeping emotionally connected when you're physically apart.

Have a virtual dinner

Sharing meals is a great way to open up conversation. Don't let distance stop you. Have a virtual dinner using your device. You could even share recipes with each other so you're eating the same meal!

A day in the life

Take photos of your activities throughout the day and share them with your family and friends.

Plan ahead

Planning a get together can be as fun as the get together itself. If your loved one can't be with you, spend some time chatting and planning for the time when you will be back together or organise some virtual travel together to the Grand Canyon or Bora Bora.

Go old school

Write a letter to a special friend or family member. This is a lovely idea for everyone, especially for children to practice their hand writing. Receiving surprise mail can brighten up someones day!

Share a playlist

This can be as simple as sending a list of your favourite songs or if you have music streaming services such as Spotify you can build a shared playlist.

Create an adventure

For children and adults alike who are not able to catch up with friends face-to-face, have them create a series of challenges, things to do or items to collect for their friend. The recipient can then send back photos of them finishing the task.

Play a game

Real life Boggle or Scategories are great examples of games you can play while on video chat.

Read a book

Set up a mini weekly book club with your friends and have a virtual book club via your device. If you have children, have a special relative read them a bedtime story on video chat.

Watch a movie

Use video chat or have a phone call whilst watching the same movie, an online concert or your favourite TV show at the same time.
